the owl of 1963

fountain valley school

Acknowledgement is respectfully made to Miss Ann Harding, who, as the School Secretary, gave The OWL Staff her time, and generous attention in many helpful ways. The Staff is also indebted to Mr. E. J. Smith for his special advice and support as supervisor of the operation. His editorial assistance made the bulk of the copy more scintillating and interesting, and his suggestions were invaluable.

We would also like to thank Mr. Henry Newman, Director of Athletics, for his kind understanding and patience, as many of the Staff members used the daily athletic periods for time in which to prepare the Yearbook for the printers. Larry Smith, whose interest in the outcome of the 1963 OWL gave the Staff more hope and momentum, contributed his photography and ideas unselfishly.

Last, but not least, we owe our special thanks to the people in the Business office, who saw that our financial investments were legal and our budget, up to date.

DEDICATION

A school is fortunate to have as a nurse a person possessing a universal understanding and sensitivity for the physical and emotional health of her patients. In Mrs. Marion E. Pugh, the graduating class of 1963 finds an untiring, unselfish interest in the lives of all her associates. Because of her devotion to her profession and her sincere advice and affection, she has become known to us all as "Ma Pugh." She has made the Infirmary not only a place for expert medical attention, but also a place to which one may take his problems knowing that she awaits with an open mind and a consoling heart. Her unsatiable capacity for giving, together with her charm and humor, her gentle understanding and patience have helped to generate a greater interest and spirit in life at school in the minds and hearts of all who know her well. For these and numerous other special qualities, the seniors gratefully dedicate The OWL of 1963 to Mrs. Marion E. Pugh.

The Owl

A year has passed since the monumental addition of the first colored picture to the Fountain Valley School Yearbook. By dint of this major improvement or rather experiment, The OWL has received more consideration and attention from the student body. The objective of the 1963 OWL staff, has been to take even greater strides by applying more original ideas. For instance, this year, by unanimous decision of the entire staff, we have increased the size of the book a square inch over the traditional size. With an increase in size, we chose a larger type style. These first two big improvements make the copy easier to read and render the pages more spacious and more convenient to design.

Other steps were taken to improve the entire format. The title page may reflect an enormous, more artistic change. The type styles are more representative of the abstract design of the 1963 OWL. But the prohibitive expense made it impossible for us to include colored pictures in this edition. However, we think we have compensated for this lack by introducing an entirely new, seven page bonus section, entitled "The School Year". By addition of this section we hope to give a picture story of life on campus.

Staff interest and efficiency as well as an eagerness to get the job done well, made The OWL of 1963, we believe, a success. It's in your hands now, and we hope you enjoy it.

Characterized by Editor-in-Chief Alex Primm's liberalism, Feature Editor John McCumber's slashing wit, and News Editor John Sill's criticisms, volume XII of THE DANE will be long remembered by those connected with it.

Beginning the year with a new faculty advisor, Mr. Charles F. Emery, Jr., and contacts for nine, instead of the usual seven, issues, THE DANE staff slowly became used to the traditional sleepless nights, hurried trips to the printers, and squalid DANE room.

Highlight of the year, from the journalist's point of view, was the publication of THT DRAIN, a satire on the usual edition. This came out, unexpected by even the editors of the paper, on the night of March 6th, just after the announcement of Surprise Day. It was extremely well received by everyone who bothered to read it.

The editorial page was a battleground for such issues as sun bathing, the vespers services, and the poor Saturday evening movies. Chip Wood's letter attacking the Sixth Form, In Mid Current's discussion of the irrationality of the ultra-right, and John McCumber's support of the admissions policy also stirred up controversy.

Another new project was the journalism class that met informally during the spring term to teach the new DANE staff the principles of the trade. Because of the unusual amount of interest and talent displayed by the try-outs for THE DANE, next year's staff has not been picked as of this writing.

While THE DANE was generally shorter in length, the increased number of issues and high quality of writing have continued a tradition of THE DANE being a true student newspaper, never fearing to support or condemn the student, the faculty or the administration.

Literary Review

Consider the turtle — He doesn't progress without sticking his neck out.

Such is the admonition which our faithful mascot, Ben Trovato, observes. And he seems to have lived up to his promises, for the year began well with the fall issue of the Literary Review — what we hope has been one of the best the school has seen. For, admittedly, to the astonishment of some, our budding young artists came up with quite a few enjoyable and interesting things. And, of course, Tim Schaefer, our Art Editor, finally got his black cover for the magazine.

As usual, all else was overshadowed by the spectacle of the ACIS Colloquium. The Colloquium has grown a great deal since Mr. F. X. Slevin first established it as an annual event five years ago to "engender a greater degree of interest in creative writing in Colorado." This year for the first time the program was extended into the afternoon. After the usual judging and awarding of prizes to the best of the student writings contributed by the eight ACIS schools, the events continued after lunch with the addition of other speakers and panels. Highlighting the afternoon was the production of the winning play from a recent Fountain Valley Student Drama Writing Contest. The play was also cast, staged and directed entirely by the students with no faculty interference whatsoever!

Such was the Colloquium this year; all of us on the staff were sorry that Mr. Slevin was unable to be here to see it in all its glory, for to him we owe the very existence of the Literary Review.

The staff of 1963 heartily extends its wish that next year's staff will gain as much as we have, for the Literary Review offers a truly valuable experience.

Student Council

This has been a year of change for Fountain Valley. There has been an increase both in the size of the faculty and in the student body. Old buildings have been remodeled and new ones built. Such changes naturally produce administrative changes, and the Student Council has served well with suggestions for implementing these changes with workable regulations.

In some of the more material, down to earth areas, such as the running of the dormitories, the Council has not been as effective as some of the past Councils, and yet it is in this very area that the Council has made its great contribution to the school.

Out of the many informal talks with the faculty and Mr. Lewis Perry, Jr., have come new ideas for strengthening the student government. Specifically, among other things, the entire Sixth Form will be united and together in the east wing of Penrose. Also, there will no longer be a Dormitory Committee. The Student Council with the aid of the Faculty Committee will be the governing power in the dormitory.

The Student Council, and in particular the late Hank Taylor, brought to fruition this semester a Winter Surprise Day. Perhaps this will become a tradition at Fountain Valley. This day was very warmly received by the student body, and it is our hope that it will be known as the Hank Taylor Day.

So, the importance of a Student Council is not what it does for the student body or what it does for the faculty, but what it does for the two.

Dramatics Club

Trite as it may sound, it's been a wonderful year! The Dramatics Club has succeeded in performing a number of very successful productions. In the Fall Term "Androcles and the Lion" was the first performance, said to be one of the better plays in years. The leading role, Androcles, was played expertly by Peter Charlot. The comic Caesar was played by Wayne Ritter, who added variation and contrast to the sensitive figure Lavinia, played by Mrs. Banks. The play, with its large cast, showed that secondary characters definitely add to the over-all performance. Chuck Ellick's "cowardice" was professionally played, while Guy Ahalt, Mr. Flugstad and the crowd scenes added the "nobleness", "ferociousness", and "moodiness" that the play demanded.

Chuck Ellick, President of the Dramatics Club, sponsored a playwriting contest. The winners of this contest will be able to produce their own plays and become members of the Club. Stu Healy, Tom Bowers, and Peter Charlot have been selected as new members of the Club this year.

It was indeed a successful season, but even with the new lighting set-up and the good acting, not nearly as much could have been done without the faith, patience, and good directing of Mr. Banks.

The Dramatics Club looks as if it has an unlimited future of prosperity.

Glee Club

A school glee club can sing just so much in one season before all of its members collapse from breathing fatigue. But not even the slightest fear of such a possibility inhibited the progress of the Fountain Valley Glee Club this year. Before the end of the school year, the Gleemen, under the proficient direction of Mr. Ernest Kitson, had delivered six top quality performances.

The operetta, "Down In the Valley," by Kurt Weil, was among the larger, more enterprising projects staged this year during the winter term. Because Glee Club spirit had grown steadily since previous performances, Mr. Kitson was willing to accept the enormous responsibility of staging such a program on behalf of the entire Club. He chose this particular show b e c a u s e of its powerful and touching western theme and its appealing music, derived from Early American folk songs. Leading roles were played by Pete Ritter as the hero, Brack Weaver; Miss Beth Mayse of Wasson High School in Colorado Springs, as the female counter-part, Jennie Parsons; the late Henry Taylor as Thomas Bouche; Whitney Robinson as Leader and Preacher; Peter Charlot as Jennie's father; and Bill Athas as the jail guard, They were backed by a large lyrical chorus composed of many pretty and talented girls from town and of other members of the Fountain Valley Glee Club.

By March 16th, the boys thought they needed a rest, but some knew better. In only fourteen days they were to appear before a jury of almost four hundred listeners in the annual ACIS Music and Arts Festival held this year at Colorado Rocky Mountain School in Carbondale. So within the next week before Spring vacation, the Glee Club rehearsed frantically. Two weeks later they returned after vacation to resume the task, working steadily almost day and night. As their voices were out of condition, the tenors squeaked and the basses grumbled, and the combination of the two was appalling. After a temporary decline in the Club spirit, the boys began to realize how unprepared they really were. Fortunately, by April 20th, they were ready to sing Bach's Cantata No. 4 and Gail Kubik's "He's Gone Away," with the other schools at Carbondale. In spite of the rush, the performance ran smoothly.

At last, Graduation time rolled around, and as a tradition, the Glee Club sang excerpts from "The Testament of Freedom," by Randall Thompson. With this last appearance, a happy sing-song year came to a successful close.

Only this boastful chorus of clever canines can escape the rigid leash laws and get away with it, because they are the most unique singing pets the N.S.P.C.A. has ever met up with.

Now, under the proficient direction of their trainer Mr. Robert Hugins, the Sly Dogs perform frequently at various school social activities, and, in fact, were asked to sing especially at an elementary school PTA meeting last fall. These talented beasties have succeeded in establishing for themselves a healthy reputation for harmonious entertainment both on and off campus.

The Sly Dogs willed their ast appearance of the year to the Graduating Class of 1963. Until next fall, it's back to the kennels for these husky pups.

Sly Dogs

To compensate for the sometimes tedious inactivity of campus life, the Dance Committee provides twisting entertainment for the boys. This year, Dan Sheridan and assistants Neil Hannewyk and John Wentworth planned the dances which proved to be an integral part of the amusement on campus.

The Dance Committee made its formal debut by producing the largest record hop ever given at Fountain Valley. Dave Poulton's huge record collection and the Dance Committee's decorating ability, made the first fall record hop an undeniable success.

With Homecoming as a theme, Bob Hiltbrand's band and the lazy, lyrical Sly Dogs attracted 182 twisting enthusiasts to the Fall Dance. Pretty Miss Gerrie Evans, from Lakewood, Colorado, was chosen Homecoming Queen and presented a dozen red roses during the intermission. Even after four hours of dancing, the night seemed to be just beginning. But as the morning drew nigh and yawning couples stumbled off the dance floor, the Fall Formal came to a tired yet successful close.

Just after the Homecoming Dance, the Committee began working on the theme for a Winter Dance. Fountain Valley's version of the "Honey Bucket," a Western 19th century bar, was thoroughly enjoyed by all as Bob Hiltbrand's band once again provided the music; later, Chuck Ellick and his pet Sly Dogs enchanted the dancers as they sang a melodious medley of old barber shop favorites.

After a most successful year, the Dance Committee bequeathed its duties to the 1964 Committee, which planned and presented the 1963 Spring Dance.

Of the few new organizations formed at Fountain Valley this year, the Debate Club has proved to be one of the most promising, and with capable orators will continue through the years.

The Debate Club has an interesting origin in that it was formed as was Benjamin Franklin's famous Philadelphia Junto Society.

With Headmaster Lewis Perry acting as moderator, the Debate Club had first session, discoursing about federal aid to education. It was a scintillating event as many members presented rousing ideas, opinions and solutions.

In March, the Debate Club sponsored a school-wide public speaking contest on the topic, "A Re-dedication of We, The People." This contest was well judged by two prominent Colorado Springs lawyers. Debate Club member Chris Pantaleoni won the contest and represented Fountain Valley in a city-wide contest held on April 16.

Current Events Club

The main objective of this year's Current Events Club was to attend conferences. The most stimulating conference attended by Fountain Valley delegates was the Boulder conference on April 11. This conference has been an annual event for many years on the Colorado University campus, as it is held in conjunction with the week long World Affairs Conference.

Fountain Valley students were able to attend this and other conferences because they were members of the Colorado High School Association of the United Nations. This state wide organization, founded by last year's Current Events Club President, Art Davidson, offers speaker, tape, and movie service, invitations to conferences, and sends out its paper, the UNifier to all members of the organization.

. The articles in THE DANE, "In Mid Current," were written by members of the Current Events Club. These articles, which appeared in every issue of THE DANE, covered international issues, hot political controversies, and sundry other stimulating topics.

Varsity Club

This year the Varsity Club has upheld its tradition as the linking factor between the student body and the athletic department. The strength of the Club depends not only on student interest in athletics but also on the basic student-athletic department association. Ever since Mr. Wallace Goodwin's arrival at Fountain Valley last year, the students have become associated with the athletic department to an extent greater than ever before.

Once again with the close association of the administration, the Dance Committee and the Varsity Club, Homecoming weekend was a gala affair. Classes were cancelled on Saturday, Homecoming day, so students could devote their thoughts and spirit to the games of the afternoon. A bonfire and rally were staged Friday night by the Varsity Club, at which point the frozen ralliers huddled around the snow covered fire, instilling spirit.

The Varsity Club remains the student organization of school that hopes and plans to achieve a stronger understanding between the student body and athletic department.

This year's Ski Club had one major problem: Snow! Due to the lack of snow there were only three Sunday Ski Club trips this year. These trips went to Breckenridge, Winter Park, and the new area of Vail Pass. The usual Ski Club weekend had to be cancelled this year because of the poor snow conditions.

This year's Invitational Ski Race, sponsored by the Ski Club, was a g a i n held at Breckenridge, on February 27. With the help of area manager Kenneth Cotton, ski school director Trigue Berbe, and Mr. Buckingham, Fountain Valley was able to put on a challenging Giant Slalom. Colorado Academy won the boy's trophy while Kent School took top honors for the girls.

Nine new members were elected to the Ski Club this year. Tim Schaefer as President and Ted M o r s e as Vice President, led the Club this year to a snowless but successful season.

Chess Club

A new school club was organized by the chess enthusiasts of FVS. The Fountain Valley Chess Club came into being when Mr. Lewis Perry, Jr., was asked to have Fountain Valley represented in the First Annual Colorado Springs Chess Tournament. A chess team was quickly organized which later developed into a club with Mr. Perry as its sponsor. The Club held informal elections in the late winter, electing Clark Southworth as President, Alexander Primm as Vice-President, and John Wentworth as acting Secretary.

The new-born chess team, (varsity players of the Chess Club), placed sixth in the Colorado Springs Tournament, indicating a good beginning. The Chess Club then organized the First Annual Fountain Valley Invitatioal Chess Tournament to which all ACIS schools were invited and was held May 26th.

The Club has an excellent start and members are looking forward to a promising coming year.

Varsity Football

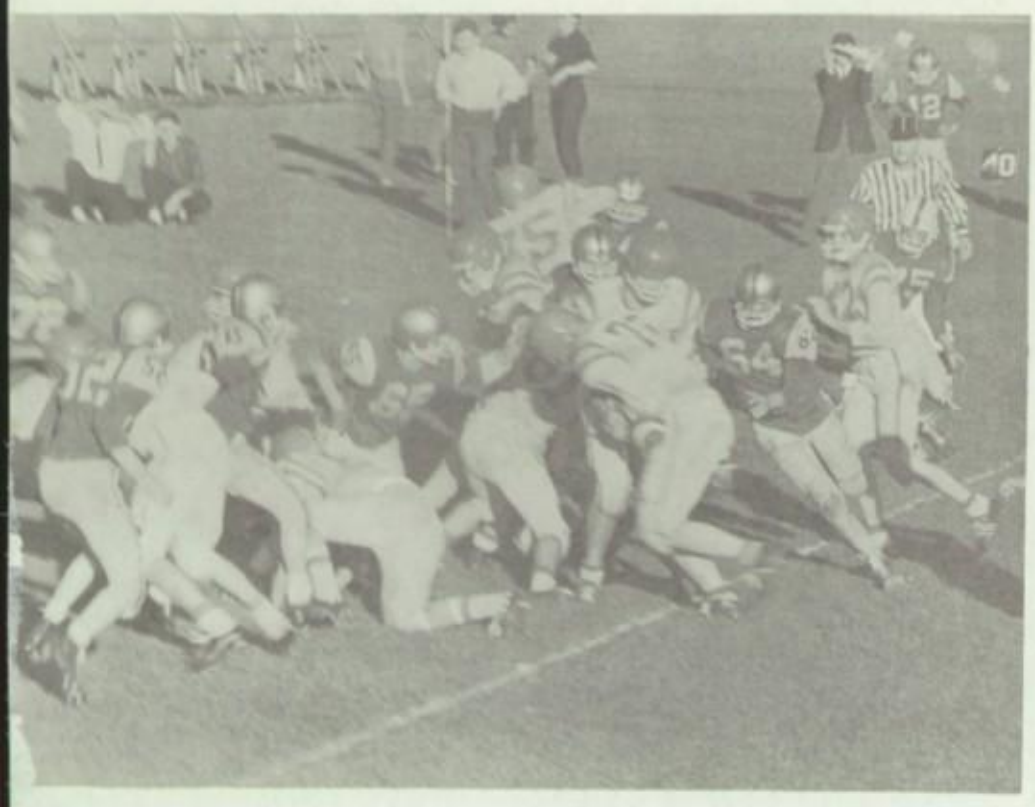
For the first time since 1947 the Fountain Valley Danes' football squad completed its schedule undefeated and untied.

Graduation in June of 1962 took twelve of the 1961 team, and eleven others failed to return to the team for one reason or another. September 19, 1962, looked gloomy. This year's varsity squad had only nineteen boys on the roster. Several of these did not play football last year, and others had never played at all. The schedule was difficult.

Mr. Barney and Mr. Flugstad, two new faculty members and assistant football coaches, worked diligently along with Mr. Goodwin to prepare the squad for its winning season. From the very outset, the team exhibited great spirit.

The defense was expanded to allow quarterbacks Mike McPhee and Jim Woodard more freedom. The backfield consisted of McPhee at quarterback; a converted end, West Flato, at left half; a converted quarterback, Jim Woodard, at fullback; and Pete Johnson, one of the year's two starting Fourth Formers, at right half. Ends Ted Morse and Ed Foster performed their offensive and defensive assignments almost flawlessly. The offense generated great momentum, as FVS punted only eight times in seven games.



One of the best Deaf and Blind School teams in memory submitted to the Fountain Valley team 41-33 in the season's opener. D & B did make two touchdowns late in the game against the completely unseasoned FVS players. The following week the Danes showed their true ability by holding off Canon City 13-12.

One week later the Danes got revenge for last year's only defeat as they set St Mary's of Walsenburg down 19-0, while allowing the visitors only 47 yards total yardage, and -1 for scrimmage. The Danes went on to defeat Denver Country Day 51-14, and showed tremendous power and stamina the following Friday by licking Wasson "B" 38-12 in an effort to prepare themselves for Colorado Academy.

The Danes traveled to Denver on November 10th. It was a cold day, a strong wind affected the game, and the playing field was rock-hard. Using only 14 different men until the last five minutes of the game, the Danes rolled to 578 yards total yardage with Jim Woodard scoring three times and gaining an even 200 yards running himself from the quarterback position, a figure which he bettered three times during the season. The final score showed FVS 34, Colorado Academy, 19. Victory was sweet but did not come easily. Teddy Morse, who played his last game ever, hurt an ankle and was out for the season. His place was taken by Third Former Chris Becker and Sixth Former Dave Vietor. Casey Jones' place-kicking was magnificent.

The season's final game was played on home-coming weekend in deep snow against the Boy's Academy of Albuquerque, with the Danes not to be denied an undefeated season and playing well to come out on top 23-0.

Jim Woodard scored fifteen touchdowns to establish a new Fountain Valley scoring record. Co-captain West Flato scored fiive, and Pete Johnson scored five. Casey Jones was successful on 19 of 25 P.A.T. kicks. The Danes averaged 479 total yards per game and 31 points, to the opponents 180 yards and 15 points.

Torney Smith completed his first season at center. Sarge Ladd and John Lindt were the pulling guards whose blocking in the line and around the ends was superior. Stu Healy, Chris Pantaleoni and Chuck Coffman were giants in offense and defense. Sam Bodine was middle linebacker. Few if any were successful more than once in trying to gain yardage against this mobile 195 pound Sixth Former.

Accompanying memories of this successful season include the contrast between right guards John Lindt, 5'5", 140 pounds; and Sam Bodine, 6'2", 195 pounds; Chuck Coffman and the path he made around the perimeter of the playing field; West Flato's great catch in the Colorado Academy game; the defensive end play by Ed Foster and Ted Morse; the quiet, even-tempered coaching staff using the walkie-talkies during games; good managers; Stu Healy lifting the seven-man sled; Pete Johnson's long-again short-again back; the majority of those present who, under Mr. Bank's direction, cleared snow from the field so the last game could be played; Casey Jones' golden toe; and Mr. Goodwin's wet end to a great football season for all involved.

The traditional gold footballs were awarded to all football major letter winners.

Varsity Soccer

The soccer team enjoyed a less successful season this year than last, giving up the A.C. I.S. championship cup to the conference winning Colorado Rocky Mountain School.

Headed by coach Alidino Cassar and captain Whit Robinson, Fountain Valley played its first game with the Air Force Academy freshmen at the Academy. Having only a week's practice, the team played well against the more experienced Falcons but lost the match 5-1, Clark Southworth scoring the lone F.V.S. goal.

The team traveled to The Whitman-Gaylord School on the following weekend to play in the annual round-robin. After the long trip, the Danes played C.R.M.S. on the "barn yard' field which was composed of numerous knolls and ditches, and surrounded by haystacks. Mark Minthorn and Whit Robinson scored early to give the team a 2-0 lead at the half; however, C.R.M.S. came back with a strong offensive in the second half and managed to push four goals by the Danes and defeat the team, 4-2. On the second day, however, Fountain Valley sought revenge and crushed the hapless Whitman team, 3-1.

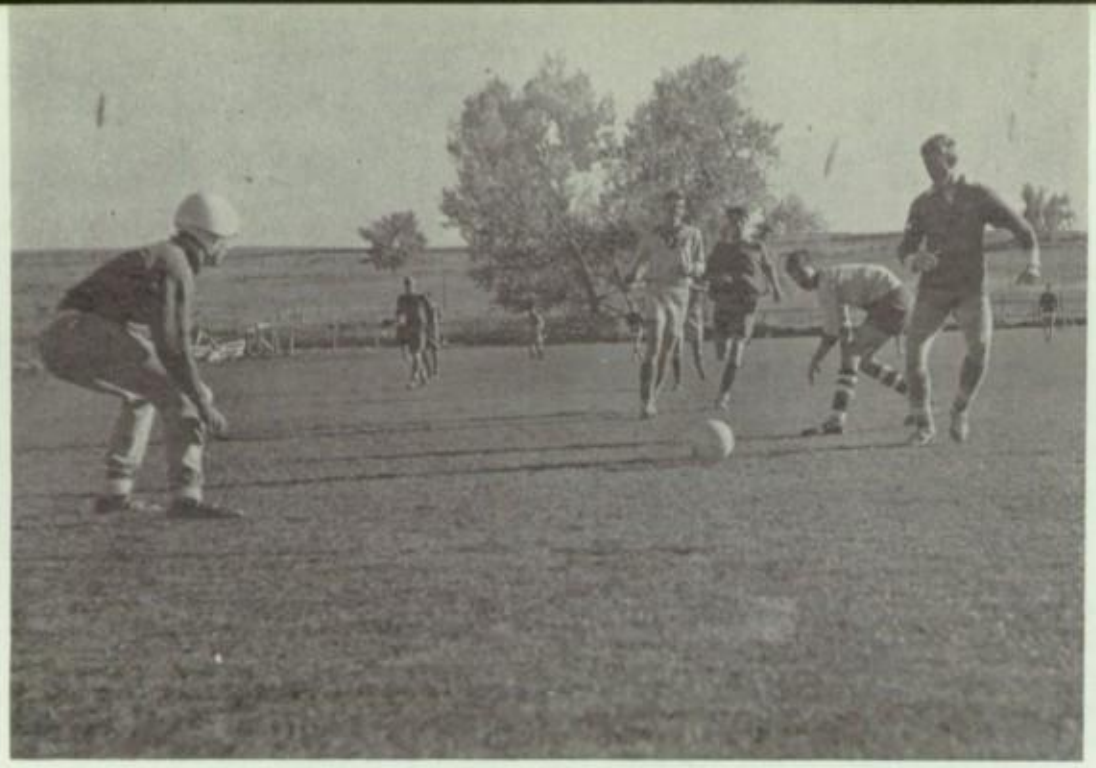
A week later Fountain Valley defeated Denver Country Day School as the Danes finally overcame the choking dust (at least three inches thick on the field). Cochran scored once and Robinson twice to give F.V. S. the margin, 3-2.



The team then marched upon Colorado Academy at Denver. C.A. fielded a strong team, but Fountain Valley took the match, 2-1; however, on the following weekends, the Danes were overcome by C.R.M.S. 5-1 and defeated by the seemingly invincible Air Force Academy, 3-1. Yet these defeats did not defeat the valiant Danes. They came back to finish the season smashing the Whitman-Gaylord 4-0 and D.C.D. 8-0.

High scorer this year was Whit Robinson with nine goals, folowed by Rob Cochran with eight and Clark Southworth with seven.

The Ballard Peabody Soccer Award, given in memoriam of Ballard Peabody, the 1961 team captain, was awarded this year to captain Whit Robinson and Clark Southworth.

Tennis

With only a week of practices and of challenge matches for placement, Mr. David G. Banks' tennis squad went out for their first game and came home with a victory of 5-4 against Cheyenne Mountain High School. The first of the next six games, which were all played away, was with Palmer High School, which they lost 5-4 on the last point of the last doubles match. In successive weeks, they tied with Pueblo East (4-4), beat Pueblo South (7-1), lost to Wasson High School (6-3), annihilated Canon City High (9-0), and, to end the away games, were defeated by Pueblo Centennial with a score of 5-2.

The last four matches were played at home. The first was with Palmer High which was lost 4-2. The return match with Cheyenne Mountain High was won 6-1, as was a match with Pueblo South. 8-1 was the score of the match with Wasson, ending the season with triumph and glory. The final seasonal tally was six wins, four defeats and one tie.

History repeated itself again this year. As last season the tennis team was defeated by Wasson High in their first meeting, and then in the return match here at home, our team came back with a victory. In the singles, the number one man, John Wentworth, defeated his adversary, while in the other courts Tim Carnegie, Jon Meek. Denny Richardson, Rick Funk, and Chuck Ellick won over their opponents also. Success was still theirs in the doubles, for they won two out of three.

Although three of the top ranking players will be graduating this year, the prospects for the team next year look very good. The last match against Wasson showed the vast improvement of the entire team during the course of the season. This was due to the squad's genuine interest in the game, their own hard work, and the determined coaching of Mr. Banks.

Pup Football

Due to the lack of sufficient reserves and skill, the Pups managed only a one win and four loss record. They started out by beating Denver Country Day School 30-0. This constituted their only win of the season. This may have given the Pups a false estimation of their ability, for they lost to Graland (60-0), Colorado Academy (32-0), Air Force Academy Junior High (6-0), and again to Graland (20-0).

Their sole win was achieved through the combined efforts of captain Chris Becker, quarterback Jeff Bain, half back Warren Townsend, and fullback Dale Boyle. In the opening minutes of play, the Pups scored on a pass interception by Jeff Bain. Only minutes later, the Denver team heaved the Pups two bonus goals, as Warren Townsend and Jeff Bain both intercepted passes. By the end of the first half Fountain Valley led 18-0. The Pups stopped Denver Country Day in the air and on the ground. Their defense ran rings around the bewildered Denver defense and made two more touchdowns, one on an end run by Warren Townsend and the other on a dive over center by Dale Boyle. The Pups had started the season with a shut-out but remained scoreless thereafter.

This triumph produced a feeling of overconfidence which was made more evident when Graland School slaughtered the Pups 60-0. After Colorado Academy whipped the Danes, the Pups realized they could not get something for nothing. A week later, they lost a real heartbreaker to the Air Force Academy Junior High School, 6-0.

Graland School returned only to beat the win-eager Pups, 20-0. The Pups might have scored in this contest had they not been penalized on the Graland eight yard line. Although the Pups did not score against Graland, they played fine ball and held Graland to only 20 points.

Pup Soccer

This year's Pup soccer team, coached by Mr. Normand Heroux and Mr. Robert Hugins, showed nothing but steady improvement from beginning to end. After a little work, and a minor setback at the hands of Denver Country Day School, the Pups turned out to be the team to head the Front Range League.

The little Danes played their first game after only a week of practice and found themselves behind 2-0 early in the game. The Pups fought hard, but Denver Country Day managed to turn back all their shots and hold them scoreless throughout the game. The next game found Mr. Heroux's Pups playing Colorado Academy on their own FVS field. This game showed promise of things to come as the Pups pulled ahead to stay by breaking a 3-3 tie in the last minute of play. The Pups had a return match with Colorado Academy the next week and beat them again by scoring early in the game, winding up with a two win, no loss record against Colorado Academy for the season.

The Danes faced Denver Country Day School next in their most memorable game of the season. The Pups were anxious to get back at them for their single defeat thus far, and this turned out to be a game which was fought right down to the wire. Half-time found the teams in a 0-0 deadlock, which continued throughout the third quarter. This bitter duel raged until the final minutes of the game when first string center Malcolm Moore kicked the ball by the goalie as the defense took over to hold off Denver Country Day and capture a well deserved 1-0 victory.

The Pups were now only two games from the end of the season, and both of these games were with Graland School. The first game was played at Fountain Valley, and the Pup team, still fired up from their last victory over Denver Country Day, easily trounced the hapless Graland team, as goalie Pete Smith posted his second shutout of the season with a respectable 4-0 score.

The season ended on this high note, for the second game of this series was snowed out and never rescheduled.

The Pup team, led by Captain George Evans, ended with an enviable 4 wins, 1 loss record by going undefeated after their opening loss, and in so doing, captured the Front Range title.

Although this hockey season was not a winning one throughout, the Danes did prove themselves to be formidable opponents on many occasions. The team's unimpressive 4-9 record does not, in this case, characterize the overall league picture.

With only a few practices under their belts, the squad took on the Wasson Thunderbirds in their season opener and, led by coach Leo Maccini, came out on top by a score of 2-1. The Danes continued upward, after a 5-0 setback at the hands of the Palmer Terrors, by defeating the highly-ranked Cheyenne Indians 4-1. This spectacular upset began with Malcolm Moore's first goal and finished with a three-goal "hat trick" by the Dane's fast first-string wing, Casey Jones.

At this point, the team broke up for vacation and came back three weeks later to face the other teams in the league who had had the advantage of continuous practice during the holidays. The Danes suffered three straight losses to Wasson, Palmer, and Cheyenne by scores of 4-3, 9-1, and 2-1, thus winding up the first round of the season with a third-place tie with Wasson.

The team, disheartened by their three losses, continued to slip from an early second-round tie for first place to last place. In their only non-league encounter, the Danes took on Denver Country Day, a team composed of players from various Denver schools, and easily downed them 6-4 after leading at the end of the second period by 5-1.

Throughout the season Varsity goalie Torney Smith did a brilliant job, not only of defending the twines but also of adding spirit to the team. Torney had his only league shut-out when he held the remarkably improved Wasson Thunderbirds scoreless while the remaining Danes pushed three past the T-Bird goalie for their only win in the second round. Even being on the losing end, the Danes were not as easy to down as the 1-5 second-round record indicated. In the last game with Cheyenne the team lost 3-1 on three last period goals, two in the last minute of play. They then lost to Palmer and Wasson, and had one game left with Palmer. This game could not affect FVS's standing in the league, but it could affect that of Palmer and Cheyenne. With this in mind, the Danes went out and battled through a scoreless first period, with Torney "Masked Marvel" Smith again turning in an outstanding performance. At the start of the second period, Casey Jones scored his eighth goal of the year, assisted by Colin Green, and the Danes took the lead 1-0. Less than a minute later, however, Palmer tied the score. The Terrors were not able to get past Smith again during the remainder of the period. The third period showed the Danes at their best, as Tim Carnegie and Captain Tim Schaefer on defense backed up Goalie Smith with tremendous team-work. The game seesawed back and forth until Palmer, with 1:05 left, pushed one past the tight Danes' defense to win the game.

Even though they had been beaten, coach Maccini's team skated off the ice proud of their last showing of the year.

Two All-Star games were played during the season. The line-ups for the two were very much the same: the first saw Colin Green at center, Casey Jones and Sam Bodine at wing, Tim Carnegie and Tim Schaefer at defense, and Torney Smith in goal; the second had the same general outline, except for one change — Ed Nichols was selected for the team, but was unable to play, and he was replaced by Dave Low.

The statistics at the end of the year were not favorable to the Danes, with the exception of Torney Smith's record. Goals scored by the Danes totaled 17 and those by the opponents came to 39. Smith, a sophomore, was credited with nearly 300 saves! On the strength of this, he, along with hard-working defenseman Tim Carnegie, also a sophomore, were nominated for the second All-League Team. The Danes' top scorer for the season was Casey Jones, with 8 points.

The season officially came to an end at FVS with the annual winter athletic banquet, at which Captain Tim Schaefer was presented with the Doc Romnes Award for his teamwork, sportsmanship, and personal improvement during the year.

Wrestling

There must be a way to win at wrestling! But the wrestling team is still searching for one. For three consecutive years now, the team has failed to win a single match. However, one can always rationalize and somehow account for a team's losing streak. This year, most members would probably agree that training and coaching were the missing links, because, without doubt, the team was potentially well qualified to master the sport.

From the very outset of the season, the team was determined to win. But without sufficient coaching, individual wrestlers were unable to make much improvement. Furthermore, six inexperienced wrestling enthusiasts joined the ranks this year and actually competed, due to the lack of more experienced mat men. Meanwhile, the team was competing against such fine teams as the Deaf and Blind, Harrison, Cheyenne and the Air Force Academy High School teams. These are reasons why the team was defeated in six out of its six scheduled matches. Co-captains Allen Watson and Jay Parsons, and manager Whit Robinson, who acted as coach periodically, pooled their knowledge of the sport in an effort to strengthen the ability and morale of the team. Their efforts were not totally ineffectual; individuals showed real evidence of improvement. For example, first year heavyweight Hal Clifford completed the season with a 4 win and 1 loss record; 133-pound Al Watson ranked second with a 4 win and 2 loss record; and co-captain, 154-pound Jay Parsons won 3 and lost 3.

The coach next year will find himself dealing with the same team if all boys return, because no members graduate this year. In this case, Fountain Valley should establish a formidable reputation for itself. Of course these are merely predictions, but with enough stamina and ability, anything can happen!

Varsity

The 1963 basketball season was good but inconsistent, and highlighted by single events. Because of the loss of some players early in the season, (the record was then 5-5), a team which had great potential to begin with, was completely reorganized. Some former first string reserves were promoted to empty spots on the "A" team and this new "A" team held its own against some very rough teams.

This team's development can be shown in the fact that after their initial game with Florence, which they lost by 50 points, the Danes, led by co-captains West Flato and Rick Funk, battled their way upwards continually to the last game. A game with Widefield was carried down to the very last minute, when Widefield scored twice to break a tie and win the contest 51-47.

Over-all, Fourth Former Pete Johnson was the most consistent scorer, as West Flato picked up the highest number of rebounds; but they were aided a great deal by other team mates, Pete Schreiber, Jamie Mapel (Fifth Formers); Mark Minthorn and Hal Clifford (Fourth Formers).

Great credit goes to Mr. Goodwin, the coach, for working so hard with the team. Although the final record was 6 wins and 12 losses, with only one win in the last part of the season, everyone who finished the season tried hard, and showed untiring desire to play and win. With a little work and cooperation on the part of everyone, next year's team will have a good chance at bettering the record of this year, for only two Sixth Formers, co-captains Rick Funk and West Flato, will not be returning.

Traditionally, basketball has been a game for giants. But the iconoclastic "B" basketball team ignored the exclusive size requirement and dribbled by to set a five win, five loss record in spite of its sub-average stature.

The win over Colorado Academy highlighted the year. As the Gargantuan "B" bombers displayed unusual form and spirit. This variety of drive propelled the squad through every event. With rebounders Mike McPhee and John Meek, the team controlled a fair amount of action at the backboards. Opponents would come on the floor and peer down at the tiny Danes but would leave dumbfounded by the team's ball handling ability.

These distinctions characterized the "B" team this year. Although not all of its games were exceptional, the team distinguished itself by building an undeniably strong league reputation as a little team with a lot of what it takes.

Ski Team

A number of things prevented the Fountain Valley Ski Team from having a more successful season. There was the lack of snow, and the few practices with inadequate facilities. This year's team seemed to lack a consistent potential both among the members and the coaches.

The season opened with Colorado Rocky Mountain School's invitation on January 26-27 in Aspen. Since the FVS team didn't have any Nordic competitors, their chances of winning an honorable position in the final results were largely reduced. In spite of the poor snow conditions, the slalom started at nine Saturday morning. In the two run slalom Lewis won a 4th place, Schaefer 11th, Morse 12th, and Dave Vietor took a 14th place. The final event of the day was the giant slalom, which turned in nearly the same results. On Sunday the Nordic events were held, a day of pleasure skiing for the FVS Ski Team.

The second meet, sponsored by the Denver Country Day School, was held at the newly constructed run at Vail Pass. On the Saturday of January 27 the seven ski clubs packed the slalom course. Shortly the results were learned, and due to the team's inconsistency, the FVS was ranked in third place.

The final ACIS ski meet was given by Fountain Valley at Breckenridge on February 24th. Saturday was spent fruitlessly packing the giant slalom course which descended from the top of Peak No. 8. The next morning the team was disappointed to find the course had been wind blown over night. In spite of the rutted course, Tim Schaefer was able to place 4th for the team, followed by Lewis' 9th and Morse's 16th.

Although this year was rather unsuccessful, the prospects for next year might improve with more coaching and better training. Provided there's snow.

Pup Hockey

Unfortunately, the Pup Hockey team could not boast about a winning season again this year. Out of twelve games the Pup pucksters won only four and lost five by just one goal.

In the season opener the Redwings defeated the hapless Danes 2-0. This was disappointing to say the least. But only days later, they met the Widefield Gladiators, and skated to an easy 5-0 victory — a commendable recovery.

New spirit accumulated as the team cultivated its basic hockey skills and demonstrated to coach Len Maccini and faithful spectators huddled together in the Broadmoor International Arena, that they were perfectly competent and able to win on any given night.

After the Pups tallied up their second win of the season against the Rovers, their game scores seesawed up and down.

Christmas vacation left the team weak and without confidence. By stamping the Danes 5-1, the league leading Cheyenne Chiefs blew the lid off Dane potential. Determined to win, the defiant Pups came skating back to whip the Gladiators 2-1.

Captain Walter Hieronymus led the Pups through eight more tough games. Where they needed improvement, they improved; when they lacked enthusiasm and perseverance, they made it a point to win. Not once during the entire season, though, did members of the team display bad sportmanship. They played hard, they played well, and they enjoyed playing.

Pup Basketball

The Pup Basketball team, led by Captain Warren Townsend, had a rough season. It won two games out of the fifteen played. Although the record was poor, a more important achievement showed up conspicuously.

Out of the eleven members of the team, two had hardly ever played basketball, and another had never played serious team basketball. Tom Livermore and Doug Shaw made an extraordinary improvement over their previous basketball skills which, before the season, just didn't exist. Larry Knapp improved from knowing next to nothing about basketball to a position on the starting five. He ended up being one of the team's best clutch scorers.

The team had two throwbacks during the season caused by injuries. Chan Edmonds, a veteran backcourt man, got a terrible case of athlete's foot, which hindered him, and was moved to forward position so he wouldn't have to run as much. This meant that the team needed a fast backcourt man and the Coach, Mr. Banks, chose Phelps Hawkins for the job. Edmonds had his playing time cut in half because of his size, so he alternated at guard. Warren Townsend accounted for the other injury when he had to stop playing because of his back. It was a great loss to the team because there were a couple of games when we could have used him.

Mark Brackelsberg was the high scorer for the team, which he topped off with a wonderful job in the last game of the season when he grabbed 21 of the 47 points. Chris Becker came in next. He was a more consistent scorer for the team. Even though he didn't score as much as Mark did in one game, he still came in a strong second.

The two games won were against Denver Country Day and Trinity Lutheran. The team played Denver Country Day right after the best played game and the hardest played game of the whole season, which was lost by four points. We beat them 25 to 24. The other game won was the last game of the season with Trinity Lutheran which was won 47 to 19. Much credit must be given to Mr. Goodwin who helped a lot to improve the team. He and Mr. Banks were great coaches because of their patience and understanding. The whole team gives their thanks.

Squash

This year the squash program was supervised by Mr. Walter B. Wilson. As coach, Mr. Wilson split his time between improving the skills of the more adept racketeers, and in helping the new comers learn the fundamentals. As the players will testify, this must be the way it's done because everyone improved substantially.

Oddly enough, the top three or four players were all just introduced to the game, with the exception of Bill Bishop, who held second place on the ladder. John Wentworth highlighted the year by applying his knowledge of tennis to improve his squash game. Two other boys, Bob Mead and Ralph Gibson, who knew virtually nothing about the sport, worked hard all season and finished holding third and fourth places on the ladder, respectively.

Squash, again this year, was conducted on an intramural basis due to the fact that Fountain Valley has one of the few squash courts in this part of the country. The only true tournament held this year was with the Air Force Academy. Fountain Valley lost the match in spite of all the careful preparations the team had made weeks in advance.

Plans are already being outlined for the 1964 squash program. The team is anticipating more competition from other high schools in town, as Fountain Valley has the proper facilities and can easily sponsor squash tournaments.
